New monuments for Saint Paul

Destined to become a meeting place for Down-towners and out-of-towners alike, the stunning new sculptural creation shown at left by artist Ron Fischer is entitled "Skygate 2000."

The three-story work resides at the corner of Fifth and Wabasha Sts. at the newly renovated Ecolab Plaza. Ecolab was also the sponsor of the sculpture.

Hundreds enjoyed a colorful celebration marking Skygate 2000's public debut on Monday, June 5th. Several speakers, plus Chinese dancers, Japanese drummers, Circus of the Star, and members of the Minnesota Youth Symphony highlighted the celebration.

Snoopy's reign in Saint Paul

The first of the 75 PEANUTS ON PARADE Snoopy's was installed on Thursday, June 15th, outside of O'Gara's Bar & Grill. A light rain accompanied Mayor Coleman, other dignitaries, and the 60 or so spectators gathered at the corner of Snelling and Selby.

PEANUTS creator Charles Schulz was raised in the building that now houses O'Gara's and his father's barber shop. Carl Schulz gave haircuts to the O'Gara's.

Some 70 artists painted and decorated the Snoopy statues that are being installed all around Saint Paul. The undecorated statues were created by Saint Paul's TivoliToo, Inc. The same company also gave the statues a clear protective coating that will help them withstand the weather until October, when they will be auctioned.

Places to go. Things to do.

The plaque at the corner of Payne Ave. and North St. is embedded in a stone from the old Wabasha Street Bridge.
